

WITH ESTHER NASH

New York Fashion Week

It was Fashion Week in New York City, September 16th through 23rd, and all the stars came out to shine!

I attended the MegaDenim Show, Girls Rule, and Taiza, as well as the Esteban Cortazar after party at the Chambers Hotel. There was glitter galore and glitzy gowns by Taiza, white denim wedding dresses and polyester body suits with 70's retro lines by Jordache, 80's punk garb by Levi's and, of course, a throng of long-legged models making the fab outfits look even more divine.

In addition to the customary Bryant Park tent shows, there was a New York

Public library venue added - I suspect to make up for the shortened week. Tickets were scarce and standby lines rounded the corner. But for insider Public Relation representatives like NYC guru Joan Deignan and Miami wizard Tara Solomon, the fashion politics involved seemed like a tea party with frosted cake.

The Taiza show attracted international fashionistas, such as Ivana Trump, who also attended legendary international socialite Carmen Dalessio's opening party at the VUE nightclub. Esteban's after party at the Chambers hotel attracted celebs like Nikki Hilton and her lovely crew. But, you can

Mega-yacht Marina Delayed

Options, Visions for Development on Terminal Island Are Discussed and Again Deferred

By [Name] [Date]

Plans for a $100-million marina on the Pacific coast have been delayed and again at the South Bay Planning Board in a vote 11-10. The board, which is supposed to be the final decision-making body on the project, has been asked to delay the project until the next meeting in December.

The board's decision was based on a report by the state's Department of Transportation, which said the project would be too expensive and would not be worth the cost.

The board also discussed the possibility of a smaller marina, but that idea was also rejected.

The project has been discussed several times in the past, but each time it has been delayed.

The board's decision is expected to be final, but it could be appealed.
